

What

HOME ACCENTS TODAY
FEBRUARY 2022

THE BRITISH ARE COMING

Retailer Oka brings its aesthetic from the U.K. to the U.S.

Style That

Market medley

Winter 2022 markets were comprised of many mini trends that pulled together nicely for a grand reveal in Dallas, Atlanta and Las Vegas last month. Natural, organic materials are used plentifully in lighting and mirrors. Seating remains neutral, so accessories provide the color and added personality. Gold is king as a finish and elevates products to a new level. Last but certainly not least, green in its many shades continues to show off its youthful and energizing manner, lending hope for the year ahead. —Lauren Roses

Moe's Home Collection's Zeppelin sectional boasts a 70's inspired silhouette filled with high-density foam and polyfill cushions.

Safavieh's Craft Collection is power-loomed in Turkey of synthetic yarns.

Sagebrook Home's 13-inch maple leaf tray in gold offers a touch of nature.

Pacific Coast Lighting's Pavo lamp has a green finish with brass accents and a crystal base.

Allstate Floral's Birch pole is showcased in a fiber cement container.

trendspotting: winter markets

Celadon Art's "Magnetics I" by artist Gayle Harismowich features snippets of veneer that create an abstract composition.

Hooker Furnishings' entertainment console features four soft-close doors made from pine veneers with a charred black finish.

Arteriors' Johanna pendant is woven from natural raffia and accented with fringe while suspended from an antique brass pipe.

Global Views' Dipped golden crackle/black vase is hand-dipped in 24-karat gold.

Auskin's Shearling stump features a soft sheepskin cover and a linen fabric base.